FAQS

Q. Does STUD 100 really work?

A. It certainly does. But you don't have to take our word for it. Strictly controlled clinical trials and surveys prove that STUD 100 delays ejaculation, which means prolonged pleasure for both men and women.

Q. How do I use STUD 100?

A. Simply spray STUD 100 on the head and shaft of the penis, between 5 and 15 minutes before intercourse, to allow time for it to become absorbed. Use the minimum effective number of sprays, from 3 to 8, depending on each individual. Each can contains 120+ metered dose sprays. Do not use more than 24 spray doses in 24 hours.

Q. Can I use STUD 100 with a condom?

A. Yes. STUD 100 has been tested with branded latex condoms and meets the BSI Test Protocol.

Q. Can we use STUD 100 during oral sex?

A. Yes. Apply well in advance and use the minimum number of metered sprays necessary.

Q. What's the difference between STUD 100 and Viagra?

A. Both help enhance the sexual experience, but in different ways – Viagra stimulates the erection whereas STUD 100 helps to ensure that sexual intercourse isn't over before it's begun.

Q. Are there any side effects?

A. None at all, provided you follow the instructions. Do not use STUD 100 during pregnancy or if either of you is allergic to local anaesthetics. Do not apply it to broken or inflamed skin.

Q. Who do I contact if I have a question about the safety or efficacy of STUD 100?

A. In normal office hours, call +1 305 530 8702. Out of office hours, leave a message, or if an urgent safety question, call +44 (0) 7712 182587 or email pintl@att.net

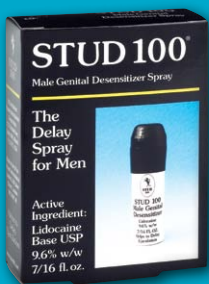

Q. What about the environment?

A. STUD 100 uses a pump-action spray, so it doesn't harm the ozone layer.
